

HAMMARLUND CERTIFIED RECALL PETITIONS FOR ELECTION OF A MAYOR

CITY CLERK ISSUES NECESSARY
PAPERS FOR CALLING SPE-CIAL ELECTION.
PROBABLY ON JULY 22

Formal Call for Special Election Will Be Made Later—Follows Out
Agreement Made Weeks Ago.

City Clerk J. P. Hammarlund today certified to the city council as sufficient to determine the election of a mayor. The return of the city clerk will be acted upon at its regular meeting on June 10, at which time it will be determined whether the election of a mayor will be confined to the office of mayor, the petitions against Councilmen Cummings and Milmore having been abandoned.

The certification of the city clerk will be attached to the petition declared sufficient and with it returned to the city council as follows:

To the Honorable Mayor and Council
Of the City of Janesville, Wisconsin.

In pursuance of the stipulation filed in the action, wherein Charles Sykes was plaintiff and the city of Janesville was defendant, signed, J. P.
Hammarlund, city clerk, is herewith returned as sufficient.

J. P. HAMMARLUND, City Clerk.
Dated at Janesville, Wis., this third day of June, 1913.

In case two or more aspirants should seek the office of mayor, a primary election will be held two weeks before the regular election, this primary being held for the purpose of determining who, among the nominees, will finally stand as the opponent of Mayor Fathers.

Any person who desires to become a candidate for the office of Mayor will have to file nomination papers at least twenty days before the date of the primary, or on or before the 15th day of June, but in the event such nomination papers, no primary need be held. If no candidate should file nomination papers it is thought that no election of any kind would be necessary.

Reason of Compromise.
The calling of an election on the petition against Mayor Fathers and the dismissal of the mandamus action against the city clerk, to compel the city clerk to call a recall election for all three members of the council, is the result of a compromise entered into by the attorney representing the city, J. P. Hammar-the city, J. P. Hammarlund.

EXAMINE CHAUFFEUR IN DYNAMITE TRIAL

Attempt Made to Break Down Testimony Offered for Purpose of Complicating President
Wood.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Poston, June 2.—The cross examination of Arthur Pira, whose testimony in the so-called dynamite conspiracy trial in the superior court was the feature of yesterday's proceedings, was resumed today. Pira, a taxicab chauffeur, was produced by the government yesterday in an effort to connect President William M. Wood of the American Woolen Company, Frederick A. Atteaux, a dye manufacturer, and Dennis J. Collins, a doc-titioner, with the alleged plot to "plant" dynamite in Lawrence to discredit the strikers during the Lawrence textile mill strike last year.
Pira testified about driving a man resembling Atteaux from the residence of President Wood to the corner of Franklin and Washington streets in this city to a Court street saloon back of Franklin street and then to the clubhouse of the Boston Athletic Association on the evening of January 19, 1912, the date upon which the dynamite was "planted."

The importance of Pira's testimony to the state in the fact that John J. Green, who has been convicted of distributing the dynamite, has testified that Atteaux paid him for the work he did on the night of January 19, 1912.

Daniel H. Coakley, counsel for At-teaux, asked today about a conversation between the witness and a friend named Peterson. Pira said that he did not remember saying in regard to his visit to the district attorney's office.

"They treated me fine down there;
they gave me cigars and used me right. If I ever got 'pinched' again, I'm in right."

District Attorney Pelletier asked
the witness how he was able to remember the incident of his trip on the evening of January 19, Pira said that he thought he was "crazy" and singer from Wood's house would go into the court street saloon and "it looked queer" to tell him when the passenger went back a second time to meet the same man at the same corner.

JUDGE GARY TELLS OF HIS RELATIONS WITH STEEL TRUST

Denies That Price Fixing by Government Was Object of So-Called
"Gary" Dinners.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

New York, June 3.—Judge Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the United States steel corporation said in his testimony today in the steel investigation, that his attentions was first called to the American Steel and Wire Company's participation in the so-called "dinner" by a man who had come to him in 1908 and demanded a job "because he knew the wire company was in the pool."

I ordered an investigation and found it was true, testified the witness, and I immediately ordered the wire company withdraw.
Judge Gary denied today that there had been any other price fixing or percentage division of output among the steel companies since 1904, although previous to the trial oral agreements had been entered into with regard to some products. The steel corporation was organized in 1907.

Price fixing as charged by the government was not the object of the so-called Gary dinners to steel manufacturers, the witness testified. He said that when the first dinner was called during the panic of 1907, there was danger of getting back to the old days of destruction, competition, trickery and dishonest warfare.

The purpose of these dinners, he testified, was to bring manufacturers together to establish a friendly feeling in order to prevent such demoralization and establish stability of business. It was my object to prevent, not by agreement, but by authority, wide fluctuations of prices which would have been injurious to steel manufacturers. There was no agreement except to meet to fix prices.

"It was proposed that each manufacturer let the other know what he was doing, the prices he was charging, the wages he paid, the methods he employed. It was our purpose to convince, together as friends, not as enemies, that we were in the same boat."

District Attorney Pelletier asked
the witness how he was able to remember the incident of his trip on

HUNTING FOR LOBBY PROVES DIVERSION FOR MARKET SYSTEM BUT LOSES ON VOTE

WASHINGTON SCENE OF GAY
SEARCH FOR BAD MEN WHO WOULD KILL TARIFF
MEASURE.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, June 3.—Senator Penrose today told the special senate committee hunting for "the lobby" that in his sixteen years' experience in Washington he has never known of any attempts to improperly influence members of congress. He gave the names of 175 persons who had called on him since the tariff bill was introduced, but declared that none were lobbyists in the general acceptance of the term.

"It is well known that certain interests have agents here," said the senator, "and I suppose they are paid for their services. I have seen Mr. Burgess for the pottery interests here for years and Mr. Brown for the sugar interests. I have seen them all, and I perfectly legitimate as far as I know.
My own reason is that the lobby is principally a thing of the past. Congressional committees pay little attention to them now."

Senator Gronna testified he was interested in farming and knew of no lobbying. He never had been approached improperly regarding any legislation.

"I do not believe there is any such thing as corrupt action going on at either end of the capitol," he said.
Senator Gronna gave the names of John Crosby and Charles C. Bovey of Minnesota, and a representative of the Chicago and Tampa in regard to Havana cigars; G. Harold Powell, representing California citrus fruit interests; and a Mr. Davis of Colorado and Florida, concerning beet sugar business.

Senator Fall testified he was a large owner of cattle, horses and sheep.
He gave the names of cattle men who had visited him in the interest of health restriction, and he testified that he had never been approached by any of them in connection with the tariff bill.

Senator Dillingham testified he had no financial interest in any business affected by the tariff bill. He had been a member of the tariff commission and represented no one who had.
He could not remember the names of persons who had talked with him except a Mr. Ullman of New York, who argued that no duty be put on green tuna. He knew of no lobby, and the use of money to affected legislation.

Under cross-examination Senator Fall said a Mr. Burbridge of Colorado had called on him in connection with the tariff bill. He had been a member of the tariff commission and represented no one who had. He could not remember the names of persons who had talked with him except a Mr. Ullman of New York, who argued that no duty be put on green tuna. He knew of no lobby, and the use of money to affect legislation.

Senator Penrose, who wanted to leave town, took the stand out of his turn and testified he had no interest in anything affected by the tariff bill except as a stockholder in the United States Steel and wire company at Garden City, Kansas.

"This company has never been a success," he said, "even under a protection tariff, and either is, or soon will be in the hands of a receiver."
Working with labor, he began to state a list of one hundred and seventy-five who had called upon him on the tariff since January 1.

The second day of the senate probe for "the lobby" began with approximately one-fifth of the total numbers of senators disposed of. At such a rate of progress it would take four days more to finish the investigation.
The senate has allowed ten minutes for lunch, and afternoon and night sessions under the consent of the senate itself to absent themselves from regular session, in order to hear witnesses, members of the tariff commission, and the testimony were confident today they would finish this week.

Senator Brady of Idaho, one of the new members, had not finished his testimony when the investigators stopped last night and he is scheduled to proceed today. The first day's inquiry had not definitely located "the lobby" nor developed the names of any lobbyists using improper methods in the opinion of senators to influence their action on the tariff.

by Dad McCool

Anderson, pitching for Boston, established a new New England league strikeout record the other day, when he fanned fifteen Lawrence batsmen.

Joe Tinker, says he trades Art Fromme to the Giants, because Fromme lacked sand. He may do well under McGraw, but his past performance was against him. This year, Tinker doesn't win more games for the Reds than Fromme does for New York. I shall be great surprised, declares Tinker, Tinker has received an offer from Charley Dooin of the Phils for Joe Devore.

The Veteran Umpire, Jack, Sheridan, retired last season, but he will probably handle the indicator in the American League games. Jack has left his coast home to consult with Ban Johnson and Ban may get him back in harness in view of the poor arbitrating the young league clubs have been subjected to this year. Sheridan doesn't have to work unless he wants to, as he is drawing a fat pension. He was the ump who stuck to the American when it struggled through the early days. Once the league was on such a footing that Johnson offered Sheridan the Washington franchise for $12,000. Today it is worth a million.

Charley Dooin of the Philadelphia Nationals, counts his young catcher, Killifer, as the best stopper in the majors. Jimmy McAleer brought out the pitcher at St. Louis. He can throw to bases in fine style and hits the ball hard.

Except during the period when Tobias Eberfeld held down short for the Yankees, the club has always been weak at that position. Jack Knight, Herman Long, Roney Reach, Otis Johnson and Kid Foster, among others, held down the job. The best infield combination the Yankees ever had was: Chase, 1b.; Williams, 2b.; Eberfeld, ss.; Conroy, 3b.

Jack Dillon's victory over Frank Klaus at Indianapolis means that Dillon has improved in boxing skill to a greater degree than the Pittsburgher. The Dillon of today is not the Dillon of a year ago—he is ten times better. Those that have seen him lately are of the one opinion, that he is the one man for the middleweight championship.

Roseburg IV, who won the 6½-furlong race at Baltimore Wednesday paid $50 to one in the pari-mutuals. Only a few had tickets on him.

Frankie Burns of Oakland, who had his biggest debut in the lightweight division when he fought Ad Wolgast seventeen rounds, thereby killing himself for nearly a whole year, as far as ring service is concerned, but who has come back impressively this season knocked out Willie Hoppe, the sensational four-round, Frisco boxer at Oakland last week, the bout going nine rounds. Hoppe has been paid more for four rounds of ring work than many of the champions. Now Burns gets the prize.

Pitcher Chief Johnson of the Reds worked for the first few weeks under a provisional agreement. He signed a new contract a week ago at six times the salary he was getting when Tinker secured him.

Jake Stahl, manager of the Red Sox, has about given up hopes of getting into the game this season. His bad leg does not improve to any noticeable extent. Engle is substantially well, but lacks speed. Stahl is searching the grass circuits to get a regular first sacker.

HA! KING ALPHONSO IS A HUMORIST; MAKES EVEN MONS. POINCAIRE LAUGH

This interesting photograph of the sunny natured King of Spain, whose twenty-seventh birthday was celebrated in Madrid on May 17, was taken at the railroad station in Paris on the occasion of the king's present visit. The king was highly amused by an incident that occurred at the station, and his opportune witticism compelled even the serious minded Mons. Poincaré, President of France, to be infected by the contagious mirth of the king, and smile broadly at the pun of the royal head of Spain.

AMERICAN HORSES AT ENGLISH DERBY

HOLD FIRST MATCH IN TROPHY CONTEST

Eight Pairings in First Round for Wilson Lane Cup at Golf Course This Afternoon

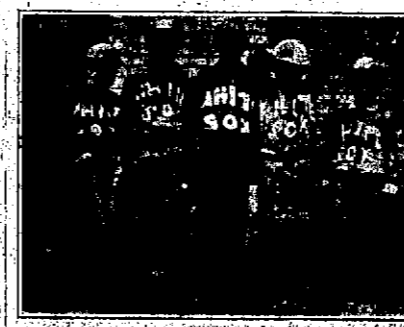

The first match in the contest for the Wilson Lane trophy cup was played at the golf club this afternoon. Eight pairings were arranged as follows: Al. Schaller and Arthur Harris, Leo Brownell and Fred Sheldon, Charles Clegg and Henry Scott, King and F. Lewis, F. H. Jackson and P. J. Bailey, W. Wheaton and H. F. Bliss, John Wilcox and Frank McClure.

Daily Thought.
Let friendship sweep gently to the heights, if it rush to it, it may soon tear itself out of breath.—Thomas Fuller.

The first American to win the Derby was the late Perre Lorillard, in 1881, with the only American bred horse that ever achieved the triumph, Ironclad, by Lexington-Maggie B. B. Since Ironclad Derby winners have carried the colors of two Americans, William C. Whitney having sent to the post the winner Volodovski, an English horse, leased for its racing qualities from Lord Mexu, in 1901, while in 1907 Richard Croker won the "blue riband of the turf" with Orby, a horse bred and owned by himself, on his Irish estate, by the great English sire Orme from the American mare Rhoda B.

Harry Payne Whitney and John E. Madden will represent the American contingent of horse owners in the race tomorrow, but the latest betting odds posted today indicate the general belief that the American entries are not likely to come to the front.

That Was Art.
"Realistic?" repeated the critic, "well, I should say he was realistic. You just ought to have seen the excitement he created in his studio when he drew the corks in a dinner scene he was painting the other day."

"FUTURE GREATS" John Smith, Adrian Cookson, Robert Cleardon, Allen and Robert Earl.

They are five stars on the young White Sox team and are planning to enter the big leagues within a few years. The lad to the left is the leading batter on his team and will take the place of "Ty" Cobb, when the latter's day is over. The next is the catcher whose throwing rivals "Jimmie" Archer and will be receiving the delivery of the big leaguers in the future. The next two hold fond hopes of being pitchers, the one in the center being able to throw an out at the present time and the other

HAL CHASE UP TO HIGH MARK AGAIN

Hal Chase.

When Frank Chance watched his team through the first weeks games of the season he made up his mind that Peersie Hal Chase was laying down on him and not playing the game of which he was capable. He talked of trading him, and nearly framed a deal with Boston. Right now however Chance would as soon fire Ray Ketting as Chase, who played excellent ball on the western invasion. During the early season Hal was handicapped by family troubles and injuries, and these were the cause of his poor showing.

one is illustrating how he will burn over a "splitter" in the world's championship series. Little Bobbie at the end has not yet decided what position he is best fitted for, but he is loyal to the White Sox and will not waver; the 'hump' when he is drafted from the minors.

Continues Its Usefulness.
In Ipoh (Malay Peninsula) one of the pioneer motor-cars in the country is now in almost constant use as a funeral hearse. Hauled by coolies, the proud old pioneer wends its frequent, slow, laborious way to the cemetery.

EXPLANATORY NOTES.
Observations taken at 8 a. m., 75th meridian, 1 time. Air pressure reduced to sea level. Isotherms (continuous lines) pass through points of equal air pressure. Isotherms (dotted lines) pass through points of equal temperature; drawn only for zero, freezing, 50°, and 100°. Clear; partly cloudy; rain; snow; report missing. Arrows fly with the wind. First figures, lowest temperature past 12 hours; second, precipitation of .01 inch or more for past 24 hours; third, maximum wind velocity.

The weather map is still flat and there is little correspondence between pressure distribution and weather conditions, except along the northern border. There the area of low barometer that was in the Dakotas yesterday morning has moved southward, and now forms a trough of low pressure extending from Lake Huron across Lake Michigan, the Mississippi and Missouri valleys and the southern plains to the permanent area of low barometer in the Southwest. The disturbance has been attended by light showers and thunderstorms in Kansas, Nebraska, and Iowa, and in the Dakotas, Minnesota, northern Wisconsin, upper Michigan and Ontario. Its place in the Northwest is now occupied by an area of high barometer, which is attended by cooler weather, the temperature falling to 30 degrees this morning in Manitoba. It continues fair and warm in the South and Southwest.

DIVERSITY OF OPINION.

Apparently there is a diversity of opinion relative to the recent supreme court decision in the McGovern-Ekern case, the majority opinion of the state supreme court upholding Mr. Ekern's contention, while Chief Justice Winslow and Justice Barnes filing dissenting opinions.

That the Ekern case will hold an important place in the judicial history of Wisconsin, not alone for its elaboration and the exhausting length of its opinions, as rendered by Justice Marshall, its overturning of traditions concerning public office, but also for the remarkable dissenting opinion of Chief Justice Winslow is certain.

That this decision will be famous for years to come, for representing the briefest possible form and in the frankest and most intimate personal way, some of the profoundest principles of democratic government as well as law, is the opinion of the Milwaukee Free Press. This full opinion is the most interesting and follows out the cardinal principles of true democracy, the foundation upon which our government is based, in a concise manner. Justice Winslow says:

"I fully agree with Mr. Justice Barnes. I think he states accurately the law as it is, or rather the law as it was before the decision of this case."

"If I could agree with my brethren of the majority that section 970 statutes requires notice and hearing, I should have no doubt that the attempted removal was wrongful because of the absence of sufficient notice and hearing. I cannot, however, so construe section 970 for the reasons stated by Judge Barnes."

"I wish to add a few words of a general nature. I am no worshipper of precedents. I have joined in the slaughter of precedents on numerous occasions and felt that I was rendering good service to the commonwealth. Nor do I attribute any special sanctity to decisions in which the opinions have come from my own hand. If they be wrong in principle or have outlived their usefulness owing to changed conditions or increasing knowledge, let them have short shrift."

"Jones vs. Oates and Starkweather vs. Superior are no more my progeny than they are the progeny of the entire court except that I was chosen to cut and fix their verbal clothing. I shall have some difficulty in recognizing them in the future in the new garb in which they are henceforth to appear, but doubtless shall become accustomed to the change. I confess that it had never occurred to me as possible that the Starkweather case and the case of Dullam vs. Willson could be harmonized. I should have said that it was impossible. However, one can hardly refuse to believe when confronted by the actual fact."

"The accomplishment of this remarkable result seems to demonstrate that the word 'fact' is no more entitled to recognition in the lexicon of age than in the lexicon of youth."

"The most serious infirmity in the decision in this case, as I regard it, is not that it refuses to follow precedent, but that it is really a step backward, a signal to retreat rather than to advance."

"The present case is a case where a very important state office is at stake, but the principles decided apply to every ministerial officer, however insignificant, whose removal is provided for by a statute similar to section 970 and there are many of them."

"Every such officer is by this decision fortified and entrenched in his office. Proceedings to remove him on the part of his superior will be of little avail so far as immediate results are concerned. If he can persuade, court that he is acting in good faith he can practically deny the power of his superior to remove him and remain in his office for months while the necessary processes of law in circuit and supreme court are reaching a result.

"The arm of the superior officer will be rendered nerveless and the man who is charged with responsibility for results will have practically no certain means of achieving results, because unable to command efficient service from his subordinates. Such is not the genius of the democracy of today, much less of the democracy of the future."

"That democracy will unquestionably elect a few men as the heads of its various departments, and demand of them, results. While making this demand it will perform a noble service, full power to remove subordinates. That democracy will cease to attempt the impossible task of electing every minor official by vote of the people, but will adopt the short ballot, elect a few men to the important positions, invest them with plenary authority over their subordinates, and demand in return efficiency of service in each department."

"The subordinate official entrenched in any office from which he cannot be removed save by judicial trial will, in my judgment, disappear. The head of the department will be responsible to the people, the subordinate in the department will be responsible to the head. Thus the people will retain their power by retaining control of the head, not by attempting the impossible task of selecting fit occupants of all the subordinate governmental positions."

"And so I say that this decision is a step backward; it tends to hamper the responsible heads of departments of the government; it seeks to return to the exploded idea that there is some private property right in an office, whereas the true idea is that it is simply an opportunity to serve the state."

"The idea that some designing man will build up a despotism on the ruins of our liberties, if he be given the right of removal from office without notice or hearing cannot be seriously entertained. There is no such danger in these days. It is the merest myth. The danger is rather that the responsible head of a governmental department will not have authority enough over his working force to perform the duties which the people have placed upon him and for the performance of which he is directly responsible."

"For this reason I regard the present decision as an unfortunate step in the wrong direction. I have no fear that it will have any very serious results; the legislature can always provide in express terms for removal without hearing, and doubtless will do so more and more as time goes on and the true theory of efficient government becomes more fully understood."

THE BOOSTER CLUB.

The board of directors elected at the first annual meeting of the Booster club, held last evening, is a credit to the organization. That the club belongs to the people, and is close to the masses, is very evident and the work already accomplished is most gratifying.

Not since the days of the old Municipal League, when one thousand men united to clean up the city, has Janesville had an organization which appeals to all the people, and is close to the masses, is very evident and the work already accomplished is most gratifying.

The ambition of the boosters is to place the population of the city at 25,000 and they can see no reason why this can not be done. Efforts of this kind have been handicapped in the past by people who believed that the town was large enough for a desirable home, and fear was expressed that the heavy influx would mean labor disturbances and increased taxation.

The Booster club, be it said to its credit, is not troubled with any visions of this kind, and the organization will work as a unit for a larger and better Janesville.

The city was never more beautiful than it is today, or never more desirable for a home. That its beauties and advantages should be shared by a larger constituency should be the desire of all the people. That this desire will be realized when every man becomes a booster is not a question of doubt. Lend a hand and be a helper in the good work.

Janesville is to have a recall election after all. It will be a warm, hot campaign, weather included, and interesting in the extreme. Mayor Mathers will be a candidate to succeed himself and who his opponent will be is not hard to guess. It will be an interesting affair at any rate.

This week Janesville prepares to greet the U. C. T. members and other visitors. It will be a happy time and the visitors will certainly enjoy themselves if past entertainments by Janesville are any criterion to go by.

Apparently there has been a decided spring house-cleaning in both the fire and police departments and the fire and police commission will have several vacancies to fill when they hold their election June 9th.

Automobiles.

In the touring car I sit, thinking, mother dear, of you And our cozy little home so far away.

We are standing in the road with a tire that's gone and "blowed" And the engine's acting in a funny way.

Crank, crank, crank, Our back is breaking, Cheer up comrades if you can, While the batteries are gone, We will crank away till dawn, 'Tis the fate of almost every auto fan.

Though we yank upon the crank, There is no gas in the tank And the carburetor quit, long, long ago.

So we cannot get up steam and we cannot hire a team. And it's almost time to see the morning's glow.

Crank, crank, crank, Our knees are shaking, Cheer up comrades just the same, Though the benzine bugles balk, We can all get out and walk Back to town nine miles, for that's all in the game.

According to Uncle Abner.

ACCEPT COAL BIDS CULLEN BROTHERS; PLAYGROUND TALK

Prices Lowest of Five Submitted—Miss Maybelle Cornish Resigns.—Playgrounds Considered.

Contract for supplying the Janesville schools with coal for the ensuing year was last night awarded by the board of education to the firm of Cullen Brothers, their bids being the lowest of the five submitted. The bids were for 500 tons of mine-run Pocahontas, and 150 tons of egg size anthracite. They were as follows: Cullen Brothers—Anthracite, $8.05; Pocahontas, $4.70. Janesville Coal Company—Anthracite, $8.40; Pocahontas, $4.85. William Hughes—Anthracite, $8.35; Pocahontas, $4.75. Herman Lichts—Anthracite, $8.15; Pocahontas, $4.75. W. J. Baker & Company—Anthracite, $8.50; Pocahontas, $4.85.

Allen Cullen, instructor in manual training, appeared before the board and recommended the installation of four more wood lathes, the installation of prism glass windows in the drafting room, the laying of a wooden floor over the cement floor in the same room, the installation of new benches in the wood-working room, and the discontinuance of the use of the forge until such time that it can be equipped with modern satisfactory forges. His recommendations were referred to the committee on supplies with power to act.

Allen Cullen and the Rev. Father Henry Williamson appeared before the board and they were addressed by Mr. Lovejoy in behalf of the playground movement. They desired to know the attitude of the board and what they were willing to do toward establishing playgrounds on school property. A resolution was passed endorsing the plan to use the school grounds for this purpose, allowing their use under proper supervision and empowering the building committee to expend $100 for apparatus if they saw fit to do so.

Mr. Lovejoy last Saturday entertained a large number of members of the Madison school playgrounds and with him inspected the local school grounds. Mr. Staley stated that the grounds here are very much better than they are at Madison, the playgrounds are larger and better adapted for the purpose. The average cost of equipping the Madison grounds was from $75 to $100. Those who sold the material and the contractors who erected the apparatus were very reasonable in their charges.

Instructor John Arthurot suggested to the board the purchase of a wireless time apparatus which would permit the keeping of the exact time from the observatory. The cost of the proposed equipment is comparatively small, not to exceed $50. The recommendation was referred to a committee.

Miss Maybelle Cornish, tendered her resignation as teacher of domestic economy which was accepted. Miss Cornish has accepted a similar position in her home city of Port Atkinson.

SIXTY-TWO MEMBERS ADMITTED TO CHURCH

Evidence that Janesville is growing rapidly shown by Methodist Church Record.

On Sunday last sixty-two new members were admitted to the Carroll Memorial Methodist church. Twenty of these came by certificate from churches outside and thirty-four by confession of faith. There were also twenty baptisms. The number of members admitted by certificates demonstrates clearly that Janesville is increasing in population, despite the adverse census figures of three years ago.

PULMOTOR ORDERED BY LOCAL UTILITY

Machine Invaluable for Resuscitation Will Soon be Received by New Gas Light Company.

Through the courtesy of the New Gas Light Company, Janesville physicians will soon have at their instant disposal a pulmotor, the machine which has been responsible for saving so many lives in cases of apparent asphyxiation, suffocation, by smoke and acid fumes, drowning and electrocution. The machine has been ordered and is expected to arrive within a very short time. The pulmotor is a small machine, light and comparatively simple. It makes up of a small metal tank containing oxygen at a pressure of fifteen atmospheres, a pair of bellows, and a rubber mask fitting over the face, connected to the bellows by a tube. The gas as it is passed from the tank into the expansion chamber is reduced to a pressure of about two pounds to the square inch, entering the lungs at this pressure. As soon as the lungs are filled with the oxygen, the motion of exhalation starts a valve is tripped by one of the bellows and stops the flow of oxygen, thus permitting the normal breathing movement. Soon as the lungs have finished exhaling the valve is turned so as to permit them to fill with oxygen again. The machine continues to repeat this cycle until normal respiration is restored or life is seen to be entirely extinct.

Mayor Patters has offered the company the privilege of keeping the pulmotor in the fire station where it could be despatched by the chief's auto when called for, but as the machine is provided with a gasoline engine and desire to send one of their employees out with the machine, they will probably not accept the invitation which is nevertheless very much appreciated. The machine will be sent to the fire station and will be used under his direction. A number of cities are now provided with pulmotors which have proved of great value on many occasions.

In the case of E. W. Lowell et al. against Peter Kennedy et al., the last of the May term jury cases which were called to come before Judge Grimm in the circuit court this morning, it was found necessary to continue the action for the term owing to the fact that sufficient evidence was lacking by the parties to the suit. The case was continued for the term.

In the case of Grace Brandt against Louis E. Brandt, a Beloit couple recently divorced, the action was instituted by the plaintiff to secure the possession of the minor children now in custody of the defendant. The case was continued to Friday morning, June 13 to allow time to secure complete testimony as several serious questions are involved.

ARE HELD FOR TRIAL

Harvey and Archie Woodman, charged with killing a dog belonging to Ralph Howard of the town of La Prairie, were held for trial on June 10 as a result of an examination in the municipal court yesterday afternoon. A jury will be drawn on the month of the month. The dog, it is alleged, was shot by the Woodman brothers as they were passing the Howard home at night.

Heart to Heart Talks

By JAMES A. EDGERTON

YOU ARE GOING TO WIN. Get that firmly fixed in your mind—you are going to win. I believe in you. Do you believe in yourself?

But you say I do not know you. Personally speaking, that is true. Yet in a larger sense I do know you, because I know myself and other men.

We are all made in the same divine image and are all moved by much the same impulses. Any man who knows himself to some extent knows everybody else.

I know I am going to win, and it is that faith which makes it practically sure that I will do so. You see, I have faith in myself and have no false modesty in admitting it. Yet it is not in the personal side of myself that I believe. That is as weak as the average human personality, perhaps more so. It is in the image of God in which the real I is made; that I believe. You are made in the same image. So by the same token that I believe in myself do I believe in you.

I know that if as poor a stick as I am can succeed you can do the same. Yet I have no doubts in my own case. Why should you have doubts? If you do doubt it is because you do not know yourself. You have never got acquainted with this divine image within you. Believe in that. Then you will believe in yourself, in your real self.

You see, I am not flattering your personality. I know nothing about it. I am seeking to awaken the actual you and to get it into action. That part of you I do know, and in it I have measureless confidence.

This idea I am expressing is not new. It is as old as Greece, as old as the Bible, as old as man. We have always known it, only most of us have not applied it. You are going to apply it, and that is why you are going to win.

Get this firmly fixed in your mind and whatever happens, don't ever get it out again—YOU ARE GOING TO SUCCEED. Now, having fixed that thought, established it beyond the possibility of any weak and childish doubt ever to shake, roll up your sleeves, go to work with a will and make good.

Don't argue, don't hesitate, but get into the game. Throw your whole being into your work. Believe in your self. If you do that nothing can defeat you.

Work. The beauty of work depends upon the way we meet it—whether we arm ourselves each morning to attack it as an enemy that must be vanquished before night comes, or whether we open our eyes with the sunrise to welcome it as an approaching friend who will make us feel at evening that the day was well worth its fatigues.—Lucy Larcom.

Why Do We Not Shout for Joy? Robert Louis Stevenson used to sit at night on the platform of his house at Silverado, and listen to the song of the crickets and "wonder why these creatures were so happy, and what was wrong with man that he also did not wind up his days with an hour or two of shouting."—John Keiman.

Never! Wife—"In a battle of tongues a woman can hold her own." Husband—"Yes, perhaps she can, but she never does."

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Bostwick returned last evening from New York City where they have been for ten days past. Mrs. Bostwick has been spending the winter at Birmingham, Ala., and other parts of the South.

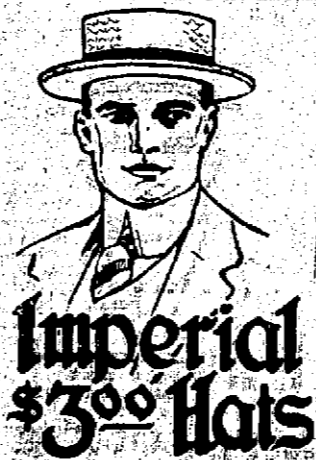

Captain and Mrs. Elmy Norcross of Highland Park, Ill., are in the city for a visit.

Change Banquet Date: The date for the Rusk banquet has been changed from June the third to the eleventh. This is due to the picnic being held so late this year. The society members think that this new arrangement is much better, as it comes in the midst of the commencement exercises. The banquet will be held in the afternoon at the Court House Park, and the banquet will follow this entertainment at the Myers Hotel.

Attention, O. E. S.—An invitation has been received from Columbia

Chapter, Evansville, Wis., to attend a $2.00 banquet and social evening, Friday, June 13th. All who decide to accept are requested to notify your secretary at an early date in order to make reply. By order of Mrs. A. G. Winkinson, W. M.; Mrs. Jay H. Bliss, Secretary.

Protection Against Bores. Paley, the theologian, had an ingenious method of warding off the time waster. When thinking out a problem he betook himself to the river bank with a fishing rod. He never really fished, but he found that people who thought nothing of disturbing his thoughts would keep at a distance so as not to disturb the fish. To give color to the ruse he had his portrait painted with fishing rod in hand.

Three High Mountains. Mount Mitchell is the most lofty mountain in the eastern part of the United States. It is located in Yancey county, N. C., and according to the United States Geological Survey is 6,711 feet above sea level. There are two other mountains in the Appalachian system above 6,000 feet: Mount Guyot in Tennessee, 6,636 feet, and Mount Washington, in New Hampshire, 6,293 feet.

Not Hardly. Doctor (to anxious husband and father)—"All the baby wants is some good milk, and take care that it always comes from the same cow. As for the mother, there's nothing really the matter with her, only a little weakness, that's all. And she'll soon pick up if she has every day some underdone beefsteak." Anxious Husband—"From the same ox, doctor?"

TIRING OF OWN RESOURCES, NEW YORK AND CHICAGO SOCIETY STOOPS TO CONQUER FOLK WHOSE BRAINS ARE THEIR FORTUNE

What might be described as a revolution in the social customs and manners of America's largest cities has recently taken place. Society—meaning the so-called "high" society—has grown tired of amusing itself and has turned to the men and women whose fortune is their brains, to furnish it with entertainment. In other words, society has sought an alliance with people from the world of art, literature, music and the stage. Among those who are interested in the movement are Mrs. Ava Willing Aston of New York, Mrs. Benjamin Guinness, also of New York, who initiated the movement, and Mrs. Nicholas Longworth.

Amusements.

Manager Myers will present for the approval of his many patrons a vaudeville program of high merit at the Myers theatre opening on Thursday matinee June 6th and continuing through to Sunday evening, June 8th, with matinees daily and two evening performances at seven-thirty and eight-forty-five.

The following well known acts have been booked and each and everyone are among the leaders in their line. First on the program comes Harry Patrick and the Saxon sisters a singing, talking, dancing and whistling act, and then the well known Mullin act.

These two gentlemen were on the opening bill of the Colonial theatre last week in Chicago and made a pronounced hit with their clever act.

The closing number will be the famous Nichols-Nelson Troupe considered the leaders in their line on the vaudeville stage as the cleverest hoop jugglers and Diabolo spinners now before the public.

In connection with this high class vaudeville bill Manager Myers has arranged for two of the latest moving picture making the entertainment one of the very best ever presented on the local stage and capacity houses should greet each and every performance.

"As a general proposition, I care little for the plaudits of critics of my fellow men," stated Pip Maudlin, the blase young chairman of Skeedee.

"While I am not deaf of public opinion, I am to a great extent indifferent to it. But, try as I may, I have never been able to persuade myself that my feet are small enough to permit me to wear white shoes without violating the laws of physical prosody."

BUILDING UP A COMMUNITY

A PRACTICAL FORM OF CO-OPERATION WITHOUT THE SURRENDER OF INDEPENDENCE.

(By Edgar Taylor Wheelock).

It is as easy to build up a community as it is to kill one. The prescription for killing a town already has been given in these articles. The way to build up a community is to follow a course of treatment precisely the reverse of the one adopted in bringing about its death.

The Community An Organism.

Every community is a business organism the members of which, in a measure, are dependent upon one another. What affects one affects all. Where there is a diversity of industries and a proper balance between the different branches of industry—production, distribution, and consumption—and where there is an abundance of the necessary medium of exchange, credit is always on a sound basis, products move freely, trade flourishes, property advances in value, and prosperity is the rule. The only way in which this ideal condition of affairs can be attained is for the different members of the community to unite and act together for the common good and for individual advancement.

Practical Co-operation.

This is practical co-operation—not a visionary scheme for uniting all the business of a town, or community, or class under the management of men who have had no special training to fit them for the duties devolving upon them as such managers. Sheer force of numbers will not win success in business where the necessary knowledge and training are lacking.

But when the farmer, the banker, the grocer, the dry goods man, the hardware merchant and the implement dealer, as well as the lawyer and the doctor, put their heads together they are able to do something besides "lay a block pavement." In such a combination of brains and experience there is an ability to solve all the problems that demand solution in order that the community may prosper. And when the community prospers the individual citizen has a better chance to prosper.

Too frequently efforts are made to "boom" towns and attract new industries when the industries already located there are not properly looked after. There is no sense in spending money in a reckless manner to merely increase the number of voters and taxpayers, if those voters and taxpayers are not at the same time good customers of the business men of the town because of their prosperity.

How About the Markets?

Among other things, farmers are asked to support their home merchants and cease the practice of mail order trading. At the same time the farmer has a right to demand that the community's market town, where he is asked to trade, shall provide a market for the products of his farm. This DOES NOT MEAN a "municipal market." Municipal markets always are experiments and they are more frequently failures than otherwise. They assume that the average housewife is willing to get up early in the morning and walk or ride to market to make her daily purchases while the supply is new and fresh, when the fact is that she would much prefer to leave the task until later in the day or telephone her order to her grocer.

But it is not the articles produced for local consumption by the market gardener alone that should be considered, for they comprise but a small fraction of the products of the farming community. A municipal market can not take care of the farm staples. Too often these products are left to the tender mercies of men who control certain territories and give farmers what they please to pay for products of a matter of fact, no more wasteful, illogical, unbusiness-like methods of handling farm products could be invented than the one now in use. But this is a subject for another article.

FAMOUS AMERICAN INDIANS

ALBERT PATSON TERHUNE

MINTOSH.

"As an Indian he was a gallant chief. As a Scotchman he was a canny financier. As half Scotch, half Indian, he was an unmitigated scoundrel." So writes one commentator about Chief William McIntosh of the Creek Nation, an inspired grafter, who, in the end, paid for his dishonesty with his life. McIntosh was the son of a Scottish soldier who married the daughter of a Creek chief. Their son, in early manhood, became a war chief of the Creeks. When the majority of his mother's "nation" sided with the British in the war of 1812, McIntosh rallied a large party of braves to the United States' standard, and led them valiantly against the allies of the British in several battles of the war. He even attacked and destroyed a sub-tribe of hostile Creeks, 200 strong, and was in the foremost rank of the American army in the battle of the "Horseshoe" at the Tallapoosa river, where Gen. Andrew Jackson finally crushed Red Eagle's Creek army.

A Chief's Mistake.

All this won for McIntosh the trust and gratitude of the government even while it led many of his fellow Indians to curse him as a traitor. But he had already risen too high among the Creeks to be overthrown by such accusations. He had, a year before the war, earned by one act a reputation for patriotism. It had happened in this way: In 1805 millions of acres of Creek Indian land had been handed over by the government to the state of Georgia. McIntosh pointed out to the Creeks that a few more such transfers of their territory would leave them homeless. Having thus aroused their fears, he drafted a law in 1811 which they promptly passed in the "nation's" General Council—making it an offense punishable by death for a Creek to sell any of the land that still remained. The memory of the part McIntosh had played in framing this law now stood him in good stead. Later the same law was to prove his death warrant.

After the Creek war the government confiscated much of the "hostile's" territory. In 1861 the citizens of Georgia had a treaty drawn up granting them still more Indian land. McIntosh was secretly bribed to agree to the treaty and to use his influence in its behalf. Either forgetting the death penalty he himself had proposed, or else thinking himself too strong to heed it, he readily joined in the plot to cheat his people out of their territory. According to ancient custom no treaty could be ratified without the whole "nation's" consent. McIntosh controlled barely one-tenth of the useful votes. But the commissioners told him the Creeks at large were sufficiently well represented by himself and his immediate followers. So McIntosh and his adherents signed the document and it forthwith went into effect, although it was against the direct wishes of nine-tenths of the Creeks.

McIntosh lost popularity by this move, but he managed to evade punishment at his fellow countrymen's hands. This so emboldened him that he decided to earn a little more easy money. In 1823 he tried to cede one more tract of Creek land to the government. The Creeks merely met and re-enacted his own earlier law making such offense punishable by death.

The Reward of Traitor.

Still thinking himself safe, McIntosh consented, for a big price, to sign another treaty, ceding to Georgian commissioners nearly all the remaining territory of the Creeks. The United States senate approved this treaty, as did President John Quincy Adams, overruling the objections of Secretary of State John C. Calhoun, who pointed out the unfairness of it. The government expected the Creeks to spring to arms in rebellion at such wholesale robbery. But they did not rebel. They knew such an uprising would gain them nothing and would only result in useless slaughter.

Yet they were not minded to let McIntosh enjoy the fruits of his treachery. They were simple-minded folk, these half-civilized Creeks. They did not reward graft with high office or even set a formal investigating committee to work on the case. They simply sent 100 braves to the house at Milledgeville where McIntosh was living under what he deemed a sufficient guard.

The hundred braves surrounded the house on May 1, 1825, and calmly ordered every inmate not concerned in the affair to get out. Then they set fire to the building. As McIntosh rushed from the door in a wild dash for safety they shot him dead.

The Georgia governor talked loudly of avenging the death of the man who had so long and so successfully betrayed his own people to the government. But, by President Adams' orders, the matter was dropped. A traitor had paid the price of treachery. The white men were already sufficiently enriched by the Creek lands. There seemed no need of calling public attention to the case by further action.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat
BY RUTH CAMERON

WHEN is a woman not a woman? When she goes shopping. Please understand "woman" in the above question meaning what "lady" used to mean. That is, a woman of refined and gentle manners. As everyone knows, the word "lady" has been so vulgarized that it is no longer in good repute, and unfortunately there does not seem to be any satisfactory substitute for it. Many people use "woman" as I have done, in the old sense of "lady." But as a matter of fact, it means merely "an adult female person." This really leaves us with a gap in the language. I wish it might be filled in.

To return to the original theme. I often ask myself that question when I come back from a shopping tour. They say many men have two different codes of morals, one for business and one for private life. Similarly many women have two totally different sets of manners for shopping and for social life. Surely you have noticed what absolutely discourteous things a nice looking woman will do when she is shopping, and especially at a bargain sale.

She will persistently interrupt a sales girl when she is waiting on some other woman. She will take up five or ten minutes of a shop girl's time asking about this and that and the other, and then calmly walk away without a suggestion of a thank you. She will walk three and four abreast through a crowded shop or down a narrow sidewalk, crowding others into the street or flattening them against the counters.

When something in which she is interested catches her eye, she will frequently stop so suddenly in the middle of a crowded aisle or sidewalk that the people behind her have to use the emergency brake to keep from tumbling over her. By the way, why wouldn't it be a good thing for pedestrians as well as automobiles to hold out their hands when they contemplate stopping suddenly?

She will even take hold of some especially coveted article while some one else is examining it. She will often stoop to lies and trickery when it is a question of returning or exchanging some article, and will deliberately take unfair advantage of an establishment's courtesy and patience when it has a reputation for such qualities.

She will not take the trouble to seek out and buy from the girl who has previously waited on her when she comes back and makes a purchase after looking elsewhere. Indeed I have often noticed that the girls themselves are far more careful not to take a sale which does not belong to them than the customers are not to give it.

Can you think of any good reason why a woman should leave justice, courtesy and honesty at home when she goes shopping? Myself, I can't.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

IN MEN, whom men condemn as ill, I find so much of goodness still; In men whom men pronounce divine I find so much of sin and blot; I hesitate to draw the line, Where God has not.

HELPFUL HINTS.

Chopped English walnuts add an interesting flavor to vanilla ice cream. Borax is a great whitener of clothes, is a disinfectant for the ice chest, and sprinkled around where there are roaches and ants it will drive them away.

An old piano stool will be found very useful in the kitchen, as it may be adjusted to any height desired.

Ammonia applied to old rubbers will brighten them when they have become dull.

All vegetables should be put to cook in boiling water. We read every now and then, in supposedly reliable papers, that vegetables put to cook in boiling water will become tasteless. Tastes differ, but principles should be followed in even the cooking of vegetables. Some people may like wet, soggy potatoes; but that does not make them wholesome.

When baking beans, use a few small brown mustard cups for a portion, with a bit of pork on top. Such a dish makes a pleasing change for the lunch basket.

When cleaning spots on a garment, place a blotter under the spot before applying the gasoline, then rub until clean, and dry and there will be no rings left on the cloth.

Raisins cut in halves make a nice addition to a fruit salad.

When making icing and meringue, use a revolving egg beater, as it makes a firm, finer-grained texture than a flat whip. The meringue if full of large holes is not so attractive, and is more apt to fall after baking.

When beating whites for a cake, we use a flat whip, as we want as much air in the egg as possible, to hold up the dough, and make it light.

Any cream or chicken soup is improved by the addition of a little grated cheese.

A double boiler may be always at hand by using a small pan with a handle which will set down in the top of the teakettle. Always allow a few inches of space between the dish and the water for the steam to act on the bottom of the dish.

YOU LIKE TO LOOK MANNISH? WEAR THIS

Mannish tailor suit consisting of a cutaway coat of black broadcloth with vest of broche in bright hues and a plain skirt of striped white and gray cloth. The coat fastens with two buttons over the close fitting buttoned vest. Plain long sleeves have turnback cuffs with self-covered buttons. The left revers has a buttonhole for buttoning.

Floor Stains.
When hot fat is spilled on a floor, the first impulse is to pour on hot water. Do not do this, as it keeps the fat melted and allows it to sink into the wood. Pour cold water—a lot of it—and the fat will harden before it sinks in. Then it can be removed by scraping up.

HEART and HOME PROBLEMS
BY MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I am a girl of seventeen and go out occasionally with a boy or with a crowd of girls and boys, but as a rule the boys do not like me as much as other girls. They tell me I take things too seriously and I get offended on account of the least little thing. Won't you please tell me how I can change my ways and go with the more or what girls and boys of my age and a little older should converse about in order to make it interesting? I am at a loss as to what to say when going out. It seems like other girls of my age have a better time than I, and I think it is because of the above reasons and because I am not sweet enough to them. I don't like for them to tell me flattery like that, and I don't tell them things like that. I am fairly good looking. (2) When having two or three couples over to my house, what is a good and nice way to entertain them? (3) What will take orange spots and greasy spots out of a charming dress? (4) My hair is very long, but is chopped up very much. What is good to wash it in or how can I prevent more of this chopping up? (5) I am afraid you think too much of your own feelings, my dear. Also, listening to nice things about yourself and saying them to others isn't always flattery. Even if it is the truth, exaggerated a bit, take them and give them gracefully. We might as well say things that please people as say those that hurt. I don't blame the boys if they don't like a girl who is always taking offense. Some girls always carry a chip on their shoulders and are always over-critical. You do not need to let the boys take liberties with you, but you can be gracious and sweet and jolly and all the boys will like you. (6) They might enjoy a card game and music. Puzzle pictures are entertaining, too. (7) Pour hot water through the orange stain. Alcohol will also take it out. If the grease spot is on a place, a hot water clean cloth, and place a warm (not hot) iron over it.

(1) Apply coal oil twice a day, (2) You are certainly thin! Perhaps you take too much exercise. Take things easier. Learn to eat fatty things, drink rich milk and cocoa or chocolate. Eat sugar and candy if you like them, cooked cereals and cake. You are still young and will probably grow heavier in a few years. (3) I think you are too young to get married now. "Slim." Wait a couple of years, anyway. Are you able to provide a good home now for a nice girl? (4) I don't know what a Scotch kiss is. (5) They are not in good taste. (6) She probably doesn't care enough for you to marry you. Better look around for another girl. (7) Gray in a small check, or two colors of brown or tan in checks, made with a Norfolk coat, would give you a broader appearance.

Dear Mrs. Thompson, I am a boy past twenty. (1) Would you give me a remedy to remove warts? (2) I am near seven-foot tall and weigh only one hundred and twelve pounds. How can I grow heavier? I take lots of exercise, yet I am thin. (3) Is a boy of my height too light to get married? (4) Is it any harm to give a girl a Scotch kiss? (5) Is it wrong to use "Gee," "Gosh," as by-words? (6) I have been going with a girl for seven years. She has promised to marry me several different times, yet when she about to become my wife she always backs out. Please tell me what to do. (7) What style of a suit would be coming to me?

WIFE OF BRITAIN'S NEW AMBASSADOR IS ON HER WAY TO THE UNITED STATES

Lady Spring-Rice.

Lady Spring-Rice, wife of the new British ambassador to the United States, is on her way to this country and will arrive within a few days. She is a very charming hostess and no doubt will become a leader of the foreign diplomatic set when she goes to Washington this fall to live. She will spend the summer at Dublin, N. H.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Things Worth Knowing.
When frying meat, place a lid (any kind will do) large enough to keep steam in) over the pan. It will cook much quicker and brown nicely.

When baking, always put a bowl of water on the bottom shelf of the gas oven. This keeps the meat or pastry from burning.

In making mayonnaise, dressing, don't add the salt until the dressing is all finished.

A few drops of vinegar put in home-made candy keeps it from being sickly sweet.

The Table.
Bread Omelet—Mix equal quantities of fine crumbs and cream, a teaspoonful of each. Break one ounce of butter into small bits and add to it a saltspoonful of salt, a dash of pepper and a dash of nutmeg. When the bread is thoroughly moistened, beat it with a fork until smooth, then mix three well-beaten eggs. Fry like an ordinary omelet.

Orange and Curry Salad—Mix together equal quantity of diced celery and oranges divided into sections, mix with a good mayonnaise dressing, and serve in dainty dishes lined with crisp lettuce leaves. Decorate with large raisins.

Apricot Pudding—Two cups stewed apricots, one cup sugar, one cup nut meats, one teaspoon of baking powder, one teaspoon flour, three eggs, piece candied orange peel or an orange cut in small pieces, vanilla flavoring. Beat eggs well, add sugar, orange peel (cut very small), nuts, baking powder and flour and flavoring, beat all together, then add apricot.

Drain off juice. Bake one hour and serve with whipped cream or the juice from apricots.

Tomatoes, Rock Style—Wipe and peel eight ripe tomatoes. Cut each one into six equal sized pieces, and place them in a saucepan with two tablespoons butter, and season with a little salt and pepper and a very little nutmeg. Cover the pan and cook on a hot stove for about fifteen minutes. Pour the tomatoes into a deep hot vegetable dish and serve very hot.

Marshmallow Pudding—Beat whites of four eggs to stiff froth, add three-fourth cup sugar, dissolve tablespoonful of gelatin in one-half cup cold water, and let stand two minutes, then add one-half cup hot water, whites of three eggs, and beat until stiff. Divide and add chopped walnuts to one-half chopped pineapple to other half. Dissolve half of a plain coloring tablet in a little water and add to one part, turn into tin, to harden. Put pink layer on top of white, and serve with whipped cream.

Asparagus and Pepper Salad—Remove the seeds from green peppers. Cut rings one-fourth of an inch wide and slip through them asparagus stalks, canned or freshly cooked. Serve with cold French dressing.

Preserved Strawberries—Clean and mash berries to a pulp, free from lumps. To each cup of pulp add two cups of sugar. Just sterilize glass jars, fill and seal up tight.

Gazette sent me with orders to skimp around a bit. At once decided that as soon as I had completed "The World in Chicago" work, I would visit this splendid institution.

The Art Institute of Chicago was incorporated in 1879 for the founding and maintenance of schools of art and design and for the formation and exhibition of collections of objects of art, also for the extension of the arts of design by any appropriate means. The school is conducted upon the most modern methods, communication and interchange are kept up with the art centers of Europe and ready hearings are given to all new methods.

The summer school at the Art Institute opens this year June 30th. Departments of drawing, illustration, decorative design, mechanical drawing, modeling, painting, pottery, etc., are maintained. Instruction for the most part is given by individual exhibition, but there are many splendid lectures open to all the students. The summer school is planned to meet the needs of the students who are unable to devote much time to study as well as those who have more time. There have a juvenile department for the boys and girls where outdoor sketching is a prominent feature, and even though a child fails to practice what he learns here, in later life the knowledge is a splendid aid to him in many ways.

For the benefit of Gazette readers let me say that illustrated catalogues will be sent on request. Mr. Theodore J. Keane is the registrar.

One can almost tell what room in the institute they are in by the people that he sees. Of course you meet many different classes of people of different nationalities, but the idea I wish to convey is this—before an Italian painting, one is sure of seeing the men and women of Italy. The Spanish paintings have their little encircled Spaniards and so on through all the different rooms. This of course is more noticeable on Sunday and one would hardly credit the number of people that visit here on Sunday afternoon, people from wide different walks of life. Here all classes rub elbows, all seemingly intent on answering that desire that lies deep planted in the hearts of us all—to admire the beautiful.

HEAD COVERED WITH WHITE PIMPLES

Went to Ear, Shoulders and Whole Body. Thick and Sticky on Head. Eruption Covered With Blood. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured.

Ransom, Ill.—"The trouble started on our baby when he was only about two weeks old. Started like little white pimples, looked like an old scab of blood and matter. His whole head was covered, for a few months then it went to his ears, shoulders, and his whole body. He seemed to come out of the skin and stick to his head. While on the other parts of his body it was more like water coming out of the skin. He would scratch until the eruption would be all covered with blood and gradually spread. The little skin on his head would cause the sores to bleed, spread, and itch. Never had a full night's sleep, restless all night.

"The sores were horrid to look at. It lasted until he was about two and a half years old. Then we saw an eczema advertisement in the paper to use Cuticura, but it did no good. Then we used Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment. We put the Cuticura Ointment on thick at bed time and put a tight hood on so he could not scratch the sores. Then we washed it clean with Cuticura Soap and warm water twice a day, and he was completely cured." (Signed) Mrs. E. F. Subberger, Dec. 30, 1912.

Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment are sold throughout the world. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. skin book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

For tender-faced men should use Cuticura Soap Shaving Stick, 25c. Sample free.

THE COLLEGE GRADUATE

By Howard L. Rann.

THE college graduate is a popular form of June vegetation which is sneered at by people who can't tell whether "cynic" begins with a c or an s, but which generally blossoms out into something that doesn't look like a rutabaga.

It takes four years to mature a college graduate so that he can be harvested in a mortar board and a thesis of 9,000 words dealing with the tautology, verbosity of the incoherent intellect. It is an inspiring sight to see a tall, undaunted member of the senior class arise on commencement day and pull out of the inside pocket of his kimono a prize oration consisting of extracts from Phillips Brooks' sermons joined with some original remarks from Macaulay's History of England. A graduate is perfectly safe in putting this kind of an oration, as he will not be interrupted by any of the faculty.

Some business men do not like to have the college graduate in their employ as he usually has several ideas of his class which he thought of since the battle of Bunker Hill. This goes against the grain of dry goods merchants who sell several feet below cost in the newspapers and several yards above cost in the store and who hold a retelling-from-business sale once every month.

As a rule, the worldly possessions of a college graduate on commencement day consist of a diploma, a collection of interest-bearing notes and a Prince Albert coat. Thousands of young men have overcome these obstacles, nevertheless, and have become successful lawyers, poultry growers and fruit tree peddlers. This teaches us that education will hurt anybody, if it is not used too much.

It is a severe strain upon the college graduate to have to return home, take off his class pin and go to work. The young man who can graduate on Thursday and then jump into the embrace of a riding stirring plow the following Monday, without becoming sour in spirit and jaundiced in temper, did not go through college in vain. He has learned one lesson that will stay with him long after everything else has oozed away.

UNCLE WALT The Poet Philosopher

Copyright, 1909, by George Matthew Adams BY WALT MASON

Old Mr. Parr, he bought a car and said: "I'll travel slowly" these cranks for speed are fools indeed; their conduct is unholy. With care he went nor cared a cent in frantic speed to revel, and people said the old man's head was noticeably level. For quite a week old Parr was in a funk and slow and mighty.

MOTHER GOOSE - cautious, and then he RHYME - said: "We'll push ahead a bit or folks will josh us. But careful still he ran down hill and courted no disaster for one week more, and then the tore along a little faster. A month was gone. 'Sb help me John," old Parr was sadly drawing. "I don't like speed—I don't like it, but we're merely crawling. I didn't get this car to free along like this, did I, just us? So let her rip along this trip—the snails are whizzing past us!" He woke in bed with bandaged head, and does and nurses handy, and he died he sweetly sighed: "That auto is a dandy!"

THE DAUGHTER OF DAVID KERR

By HARRY KING TOOTLE

Illustrations by RAY WALTERS

Gloria was mistaken in thinking that Little Ella slept. After Mrs. Hayes had left her she walked quietly back to a chair by the bedside. On it lay a cheap novel with which the sick woman had been beguiling the time. She picked it up and was turning the pages casually when a feeling stole over her that she was being observed. Putting aside the book, she found Little Ella gazing at her stonily.

"Say, what'd you come here for?" "Why," she answered in surprise, "I wanted to help you."

A sneer curled the sick woman's lip, a cynical sneer of disbelief. "Help me! To what? I ain't ever saw you down here before. Come on, what brought you?"

"I came with Mrs. Hayes," was all that Gloria could find to answer. "The woman what just went out?"

"Yes."

Feeling that she must do something to end this catatonic, Gloria happened to glance at the book she held in her hand, and this led her to ask: "Wouldn't you like me to read to you?"

"Naw. I can read fer myself."

"Perhaps there is something else I might do. What do you say, I might write a letter for you?"

"A letter? Who to?"

"Isn't there some one who ought to know you are sick?"

"Who'd want to hear from me?" the woman replied sullenly. "I ain't the belle of the village any more."

"Haven't you a mother?"

"She's dead."

"A father, then? Isn't there some one watching for you, hoping to see you come down the quiet little street?"

Here was an attempt to awaken a sentiment for the past which met with no success. Little Ella replied roughly:

"They're watching at his house all right—all right—and that pasty-faced wife of his—so they can run out and unchain the dog. Then they'd gather in the parlor an' say prayers for the dead—that's me."

"What could you have done to have your family treat you so?" Gloria asked. "What could you do to be estranged from your father, of all persons?"

This was something Gloria could not understand. Once she would not have understood a lack of love where two had lived together continuously. Now she could waive that point, but the estrangement was beyond her.

"And yet not married?" "No." "Goin' to be?" A pause. "No." "Say, yer overlookin' a bet. What's the matter?" Gloria felt herself fascinated by this slight little woman who in her excitement had dropped herself up in bed on a thin, trembling arm. The light had come back into her eyes as she pursued her inquiries and they shone like two burning coals.

"He didn't really love me," Gloria said more to herself than to the girl. "Did he tell you so? How do you know?" There was no answer. "Huh! You asked me questions so I thought I'd ask you some. Did he know you loved him?"

"He did, but—my father discovered that he was unworthy."

This information seemed to Little Ella to be a bond of fellowship. She fell back on the bed to rest, and remarked philosophically:

"Humph! My ol' man thought the feller I loved was no good, too. Guess we've had pretty hard times, eh?" No reply. "What'd you think?"

"I—I—he was unworthy."

It was now Gloria who spoke listlessly. "So you had to choose between 'im an' yer father?"

"Was there any choice? I gave him up."

"I left home. So, you see, I've loved more'n you've ever loved," she cried. "You didn't really love." There was scorn in her voice as she spoke. "I've gone through fire an' storm fer the man I loved, because I loved a real man. You must 'a' loved some kid at the ribbon counter. A real man wouldn't 'a' let you give him up."

This was a tribute to the animal perfection of the graceful young creature before her. The sight of Gloria as something to be desired, to be possessed, made Little Ella feel that no man with red blood in his veins would give her up without a fight. She hated her for her masses of beautiful hair, her deep, soulful eyes, her complexion of apple blossoms, and her delicate white hands. She hated her for her svelte, girlish figure and her beautiful clothes which brought out her best lines. A woman may be down in the world, but she has eyes to see.

"Look at me," she cried, beating her flat breasts with her red, bony hands. "A man died fer me—an' he thought I was worth it. Did you love a man well enough for him to do that fer you?"

Gloria could only avoid the question by tactlessly referring to Little Ella's present state.

"You don't know what you're saying. Can't you see what he's brought you to?"

"Don't you say a word against him," snapped the sick woman. "All men ain't alike, neither. It wasn't his fault I'm here. It's the system."

"The system! What's that?" Here was the introduction of a new element. Gloria's curiosity was aroused. There was something inexorable about it, to judge from Little Ella's manner of speaking.

"Well, call it society, if you want to," conceded society's victim. "What do you mean?"

"Say, are you stringin' me, or was you born yestiddy?"

"She laughed harshly at the humor of such a question.

"I don't understand," was all Gloria could reply.

CHAPTER XVII.

Gloria had not been reared without an understanding of the various layers of society. Of those close to her own station in life she had an intimate and intelligent knowledge, but as she went down the scale her acquaintance grew lighter and her understanding more vague. The poor creatures whom as a class Little Ella now represented to her were almost as foreign and as misunderstood as would be a lama of Tibet. Having no knowledge, she could have no real pity.

Gloria had never dreamed, even when she tried to put the worst possible construction on what few things she knew, that the world could be so cruel. Never for an instant had she thought that it was possible for men whom she regarded as upright and honorable to be engaged directly or indirectly in exploiting vice and ignorance. It had never occurred to her that men whom she might know, some of them owned dreary blocks of hovels and tenements from which high rents were secured only because the people who lived in them were not respectable. Poor and honest tenants could have paid but poor and precarious rents.

"system" at Gloria's request, her voice grew shriller and shriller as the indictment grew graver. She talked rapidly, sometimes turning aside from the direct channel of her revelation, to explore some little eddy of a specific instance which made her account a reality. Gloria could have credited something to exaggeration had it not been that just at the moment she thought the girl was beginning to draw on her imagination some incident would be introduced suddenly to make the whole thing ghastly real.

For the first time the daughter of David Kerr learned of the peddlers of showy dresses, the vendors of cheap perfumery, the stealthy disseminators of cocaine, and the many other leeches that fatten on the unfortunate, of the underworld. She learned that all the misery was but a monument to human greed. Nothing was exploited in which there was not a profit of three or four hundred per cent. Nothing was exploited which did not tend to kill the finer feelings, reducing the poor victims in time to the level of brutes.

"And the men down here," Little Ella cried, the memory of the good, wholesome men whom she had known in her earlier life coming back to smite her, "poor ignorant excuses for men, most of 'em—all they're good fer is to steal an' lie an' live off us women, an' vote the way the boss tells 'em on election day. An' who's responsible fer that?" "Say?" Gloria could make no reply, and Ella, whose pause had been rhetorical, uncouth as she was, made answer herself. "I know. The fine gentlemen what buys the votes. An' when they needs more money fer more votes they send the p'lice 'round, an' us poor girls has to pay, always pay."

"I never dreamed of such a thing."

"I tol' you you didn't know. Why, once I was good like you, too. An' now," she began to sob—"now—I'm down—an' I can't git up. I can't git up. It's too late."

Suddenly Gloria remembered the power to which she would appeal. Where a minute before had been darkness and uncertainty was now the clearness of a summer day.

"It's never too late," she insisted. "Remember, I'm not alone. My father will help me. He's brave and good and strong, with a heart of gold. I can't change the world's ways, maybe, but I can do something to make Belmont better with my father's help—and yours."

Gloria was a doughty Crusader, and was eager to plunge at once into the work of reform. She was going to permit her father to be a ways-and-means committee, but she intended to have a thorough grasp of the whole situation herself.

"Why do you pay this—this 'black-mail'?" Gloria demanded. "I've got to live. What else can I do—now? I'm down, an' in debt."

"But they can't keep you from livin'."

"They can send me to the work-house." And at the thought Little Ella shuddered.

"Whom does this money go to? I want to get that part of it absolutely straight, so I can tell father."

"It goes to the boss, of course."

Little Ella made this statement in a matter-of-fact manner. The methods of the "system" were so notorious that she did not have to think a moment before giving her answer. The boss. Here was a factor in the game of which Gloria as yet had had no inkling. The boss. What does he do? Now she desired to know about this boss.

"The boss?" Both the tone of her question and the look on her face denoted her interrogation.

"I Don't Understand."

"Yes, the boss gets the money," Little Ella said that it would be necessary for her to explain. "I thought everybody in Belmont knewed that. I gives it to Noonan mostly, but sometimes the round-shoulder collects, an' sometimes they both do."

This double collection wasn't on the square, but what was she to do? If she complained, she knew too well what would happen to her.

"Who's Noonan?" "Mike Noonan? He runs the saloon downstairs, an' rents me this room. He gets a rake-off from 'most everybody down here."

"He must be a rich man."

"Oh, some—but he's got to pass a lot of it on."

"And you say the police know about this?"

Little Ella looked at her in amazement. To Gloria a policeman was a stalwart individual with white gloves who halted traffic while she crossed the avenue. To the other a policeman was an enemy, a grafter who never overlooked an opportunity to feather his own nest or line his own pocket-book. The best that she ever could say for any one of them was that he was an autocratic rowdy. Gloria's simplicity in asking if the police knew of this tribute caused her to reply:

"They ought to—they git some of it. Then the man higher up gets his."

"I can't believe it. When you get well I want you to come and tell my father all this. He is—he's an influential man. 'm sure he'll help you. He shall help you," she added decisively, "and every poor, unhappy person down here, because I shall tell him to."

Little Ella looked at her, all admiration for such power.

IF THIS IS YOUR BIRTHDAY The things you are interested in will turn out well, if you give them your attention. Avoid entering into schemes without assuring yourself that they are worthy. Risks in general are unfavorable to you.

Those born today will have most good qualities except patience. This will cause them to make many mistakes in judgment and will bring them to disagreements, because they have not taken care to inform themselves before acting. In spite of errors they will succeed in life.

Post Facto Wish.
Helen, five, and grandma grasped ends of the chicken wishbone, and made wishes. The bone flew apart, and Helen danced around the room crying: "I'll get my wish! I'll get my wish!" "What did you wish, Helen?" asked her father. With great glee she answered: "I wished our dog hadn't died!"

TISSUE BUILDING

Tissue is the doctor's name for body cells. It is to our bodies what coal is to an engine. Every day we burn up a certain amount of tissue. Therefore new tissue must be built to take the place of the lost fuel. The food we eat makes this new tissue and in a healthy person gives enough fuel to replace the loss. People get thin and "run down" because they do not get enough nourishment from their food to supply the needed fuel. When the weakened system does not do its duty you must have a "tissue builder." Father John's Medicine is a real tissue builder because it actually makes new flesh and tissue. When you take Father John's Medicine, the actual food elements of which it is composed give you new strength, and enable the organs of the body to resume their work. Father John's Medicine soothes and heals throat and lungs, cures colds, bronchitis, asthma. People gain weight steadily while taking it. If you have any difficulty in securing Father John's Medicine from your druggist, write to Father John's Medicine, Lowell, Mass., enclosing $1.00 for a large bottle by express prepaid.

Janesville Daily Gazette, June 3, 1873.—A Ferocious Canine. Edward Pottle, owner of a pointer which has been trained in the role of a watch dog, and would jump on the heels of his actions of cannibalism that his early and later education in that particular line was most scrupulously attended to. On Saturday afternoon L. M. Hammond's young son knocked at the Pottle residence on an errand, and as the door opened the trained canine sprang through the door and fastened its long fangs in the boy's face, in fact, a wound above and below the eye and one inch and a half long on the boy's temple, the latter being of a serious nature.

This morning William Tallman's boy was sitting on Pottle's house when the dog suddenly sprang upon him, sinking his teeth into the boy's left cheek, but did not inflict as serious a wound as in the other case. The dog shows no indication of rabies and it is probably only his ugly nature that is giving vent. He will be kept in close quarters for some time or will be killed.

A west side is enthusiastic over a hen's egg which weighs half a pound and has a ridge or seam the size of a shorter center circumference. It was probably laid in sections and afterwards put together by the industrious hen.

A flock of wild geese passed over this city, going northward. They came from Beloit and of course we cannot blame them being two or three months behind time in their migratory movements.
